

The Main Ethiopian Rift: Ongoing deformations inferred from earthquake mechanism

Ameha Muluneh

School of Earth Sciences,
Addis Ababa University
Addis Ababa, Ethiopia

- Diffused (wide-spread) earthquake occurrence is controlled by the rheology of the crust.
- Lower crustal seismicity requires high, transient pore-fluid pressure and strain rate.
- Geohazard models should consider rift-wide and fluid induced seismicity!

