I have created an online clickable and zoom-enabled world map containing weblinks to over 700 institutions where astronomy is either researched professionally and/or and taught in classrooms at the university level. Not included are stand-alone museums, planetariums, amateur astronomical societies, virtual institutes, nor observatories which fail this criteria. By clicking on a flag marker, one accesses the weblink to the associated institute.

Useful for:

- Secondary school students
- Undergraduate students
- Master's students
- PhD students
- Postdoctoral researchers

- Professors
- Journal editors
- Grant programme managers
- Amateur astronomical societies
- The media

and others...
